

HELPING YOU BUILD BACK BETTER AFTER AN INSURED LOSS

At Northbridge, we know that the changing climate is affecting you in significant ways. And we know that if you made efforts to use products, materials and modes of construction that are intended to better protect the environment you would like the same rebuild should you face an insured loss.

We're also here to work with you to adapt to these risks and help build more resilient communities. By including a policy extension that enables you to build back better after an insured loss, you can not only reclaim your property but also choose to use materials that are more environmentally friendly or resilient to weather-related events.

With our Green Choice extension coverage, if you face an insured loss and would like to use the opportunity to rebuild or replace in a more sustainable way, our extension provides more flexibility as these costs would normally be outside the definition of replacement cost and not covered.

HOW OUR GREEN CHOICE EXTENSION CAN HELP YOU

Embedded as part of our property coverage for eligible policies¹

Encourages environmentally friendly products, materials or modes of construction such as those made from sustainable resources, energy efficient and/or non toxic by a Provincial, Territorial, Municipal or Federal government authority (e.g. Energy Star)

Provides coverage for the extra cost of upgrading household equipment and appliances that need to be replaced to something that is better for the environment (for example, reduced energy consumption, reduced polluting emissions, etc.)

Covers the increased cost to replace the insured property with more weather-resistant roofing or siding material following an insured loss (for homeowners policies)

Coverage is not subject to a deductible

BEYOND THE POLICY

Our policies offer a robust protection for today's risks. Talk to your broker to learn more about their benefits and if they apply to you.
